
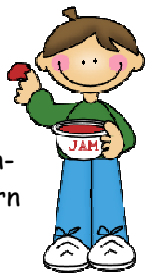
How-To Books



How-to books teach you how to do something. They are factual accounts of how to practice and acquire a new skill of some sort. Some examples of how-to books for kids are kite building, origami folding, gardening, sewing, and science experiments. These types of books are found in the juvenile or young readers` non-fiction section of your local library or bookstore. You never know what you will learn when you open a book.

In the spaces below, mark down the How-To books that you read this year. Don't forget to put a checkmark in the box when you have completed reading a full book.
